

as declaring in positive terms that he did not want the nomination, and would not accept it.

"Then the machine men proceeded to select some dummy candidates to mask their real intentions. John Boyd Thacher, of Albany, was brought forward as 'Hill's choice,' and Daniel Lockwood as the choice of Lieut.-Gov. Sheehan.

"Then the 'reformers' began to urge the nomination of Judge William J. Gaynor, of Brooklyn, and his boom soon carried such proportions that the leaders had to concoct a scheme to puncture it.

More Care for Gaynor.

"It was necessary to exercise more diplomacy with Judge Gaynor than had been called into play against the others, however. He stood for reform first, last and all the time, and had great strength. It would not do to approach him as a party to a deal, and so it was decided to pretend to offer him the nomination and at the same time make it impossible of an honorable acceptance by insinuating his private life emanating from among the delegates to the very Convention that seemed anxious to have him accept.

"Judge Gaynor's main retort upon such methods was made in a letter given out Tuesday night, in which there appeared this indication that Judge Gaynor understood the purpose of his enemies, and seemed to strike at Hill:

The Judge's Advice.

"Do not nominate any one only because his name is a private citizen is high or because powerful people or powerful combinations are at his back, nor elect him because he has held political office, however high, for I say to you that it is of more consequence what your candidate has done and is capable of doing for the people than what the people have in the past done for him.

"I would change my mind and gladly try to obey the voice of the people this Fall, but the disposition betrayed towards me by some of your fellow-delegates I cannot.

Then the farces of sending J. Sergeant Cram to meet Mr. Whitney and ask him to accept was gone through with, and the other candidates were all eliminated except Senator Hill's mask—John Boyd Thacher. He was reserved for the last.

Then Came Belmont.

"Then a strong effort was made to strengthen the mask. Perry Belmont was solicited to allow the use of his name for second place on the 'eleventh-hour slate.' Then came a compilation of the leaders' heads counted on.

"Why not first place?" asked Belmont.

"Because that is promised to Thacher," he was told.

"Naturally Mr. Belmont grew indignant. Thacher, indeed! Wasn't he a better man than Thacher, and did they think for a moment that he couldn't get a bigger vote than the ex-Mayor of Albany? Booh!

"And so Belmont declared himself out of it in a huff.

"Then Charles P. McClelland, of Westchester County, was approached, and not being in the secret he consented. Then the 'slate' that was put up to be smashed was completed, by the addition of the name of Judge Robert T. Titus, of Buffalo, for Court of Appeals Judge.

"The leaders then entered the Convention, the slate carried very easily in the hall, but it should fall to pieces of its own weight before the time agreed upon.

Letting Out the Secret.

"While Mr. Hill was pronouncing the benediction, according to programme, upon Mr. Hill's mask, the machine men were letting some of the 'boys' into the secret, and telling them that Hill was to be surprised by a stampede for him that would compel him to accept.

"The filling were the 'boys' that they could hardly contain themselves until Thacher's 'obituary' had been finished.

"They whooped things up, with what result all of us know.

"The newspapers have told us of the antics of Mayor Gilroy, Senator Murphy, our own Bourke Cockran, Jacob Cantor, Senator Guy and Col. Fellows, and comment on this part of the 'deal' is unnecessary.

"Whether this 'hurry-hurry' Convention has picked the winners remains to be seen. The ticket will meet with some opposition in New York, Kings and Queens counties, and may come out of the campaign badly disgraced.

Col. Murphy's Opinion.

A little different view is taken by Col. Michael C. Murphy, Excise Commissioner, and a man who stands very high in the circles of Tammany Hall. He was enthusiastic to-day in speaking of the action of the Saratoga Convention yesterday. He said:

"Up to 11 o'clock, noon, the Democratic party was in a state of chaos. About that time the leaders had agreed on a hybrid ticket, which, in my opinion, could not have carried ten counties in the State.

"When the rumors spread that the Thacher ticket had been decided upon a gloom spread over Saratoga village, as well as over the minds of the delegates assembled, that was appalling. The managers began to see that a big mistake had been made, and they began to consider seriously if there was not some way to rectify it.

"Fortunately, the Democratic party there were some clear-headed men there who saw that the situation demanded decided action, and that a remedy must be quickly applied.

Talk of the Leaders.

"Mayor Gilroy, Burke Cockran, William H. Clark and James J. Martin got together and talked the situation over. They quickly came to the conclusion that Hill ought to be the candidate for Governor. Then they found that Dan Lockwood was the most available man for the second place on the ticket, coming, as he does, from the section of the State that has only recently been in rebellion and which defeated the regular State ticket by an overwhelming majority last Fall. So they selected the man from the Democratic ranks whose minds naturally turned to the man who, up to that time had been the selection for Governor, and they selected him as the very best candidate for the office of Judge of the Court of Appeals.

Mayor Gilroy's Plan.

Mayor Thomas J. Gilroy returned this morning from the Democratic convention at Saratoga. He hadn't a word to say about the ticket, but he was in a mood to say that it was a good one.

"What effect do you think the nomination will have on the local ticket?" he was asked.

"I haven't given the matter a thought," replied the reporter, "the 'supper' queried the reporter, 'the Tammany convention should follow suit and force the nomination for Mayor on you?"

"I don't want to answer that question," the Mayor was in a very uncommunicative mood.

The Tammany leaders are of the opinion that Tammany's local ticket will not be strengthened by the nomination of Hill. Had it not been for Hill and his objectionable methods, they say, there would be no Democratic organization in the State.

They predict that Hill will not poll more than the full Tammany vote for the Tammany ticket, and believe that Tammany was injured rather than benefited by his candidacy.

The State Democracy and other Democratic factions promise loyal support to the nominees of the State Convention, but not to the local candidates of Tammany.

Talk of Compromise.

A story was current to-day that Tammany might compromise with the State Democracy by giving them a certain number of Congressmen, Assemblymen and Aldermen in return for their support of the Tammany nominee for Mayor.

This, however, is merely gossip, as Tammany is not likely to recognize the State Democracy here after having refused to do so at Saratoga.

The leaders of the "Evening World" were informed before the Convention that an election year, that a stampede to Hill was contemplated.

Once started, nothing could stop the Hill enthusiasts. The fact that Senator Hill swore at his friends for forcing him against his will, would make it seem that he was not in the secret if it was all planned beforehand.

Local politicians who have been going to conventions for a century or two, and more, only remember one similar scene to that of yesterday. That was at the Democratic Convention in 1879 when Lucius Robinson was named for Governor, and an attempt was made to stampede the Convention for the late Senator Jacobs, of Brooklyn.

GAYNOR IS WAITING.

Not Yet Ready to Say Whether or Not He Will Accept.

(Special to The Evening World.)

RIVERHEAD, L. I., Sept. 27.—Judge Gaynor has not as yet said whether or not he will accept the nomination for Judge of the Court of Appeals. He says he wants to first know all the facts. He has as yet sent no reply to inquiring messages on the subject. He opened court as usual this morning, and will finish the circuit business here to-day in time to take the 2.40 train for Bellport, where he has his summer residence.

CARLISLE WON'T TALK.

But Is Said to Regard the New York Ticket as Strong.

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Secretary Carlisle was to-day questioned as to his views as to the wisdom of the Convention proceedings in nominating Mr. Hill as the Democratic candidate for Governor of New York.

The Secretary declined to discuss for publication the merits of the Convention, but it is learned from his friends that he regards the ticket as a strong one, and that he would have been successful in November.

SHIRTMAKERS JUBILANT.

They Predict Victory Before the End of This Week.

The striking shirtmakers are jubilant to-day over the prospect of victory before the close of the present week.

A member of the Executive Committee of the fifteen contractors have acceded to the new scale of prices, and 40 hands returned to work this morning.

Members of the Contractors' Association, who manufacture the cheaper grades of shirts, have been furnished with the new price-list.

A committee visited Lowry & Son, 477 Broadway, to-day, for the purpose of informing them of the decision and terms. A settlement of the strike of this shop is expected.

It is also the prospect of a settlement of the strike at Reiss's shop, 300 West 42nd street, where 150 hands have been employed, nearly all of whom are out.

A dispatch from Carmel, Pa., states that the union hands there refused to work sent on from New York by contractors.

A mass-meeting of the strikers will be held in Wallonia Hall this afternoon.

HOYT ON THE STAND.

He Testifies Against Ex-Cashier W. P. Wentworth.

The trial of William P. Wentworth, ex-cashier of the Victoria Hotel, charged with embezzling about $7,000 while acting in that capacity, was begun in earnest this morning before Judge Martineau in Part II. Court of General Sessions.

Yesterday was taken up in obtaining a jury, and Henry B. B. Stapler was appointed special District Attorney for this case, as Col. Fellows had been retained as Wentworth's counsel while De Lancey Nicolai was District Attorney.

The counsel for the defense was Abraham Levy, who was assisted by Postmaster John Henry, Frederick J. Swift, and Samuel Fessenden, of first class.

Henry L. Hoyt, told in detail how the books of the hotel were kept, and how the embezzlement was carried out, and how he was induced to cover his defalcations.

Most of the morning session was taken up in arguing over the question of admitting the books as evidence.

Ailing Women, Why Do You Hesitate?

"All I have to say is, any woman who continues to suffer with any of those trying diseases peculiar to our sex is largely responsible for her own suffering, for if she will only apply to Mrs. Pinkham's relief will follow at once."

"This I know absolutely from my own personal experience. Her Vegetable Compound is a miracle. I have seen it cure womb troubles when all the wisest doctors failed."

"My sisters, don't hesitate. Write at once; relief is waiting for you."—Mrs. Jennie Street, San Francisco, Cal.

SHEPARD MAY BOLT.

The Turned-Down Delegates Discuss an Independent Ticket.

Judge Gaynor Expected by Them to Refuse to Run.

Secretary Edwards Consults Fairchild on the Situation.

If the present plans of the Shepard party are carried out Brooklyn voters will have an extra ticket at their disposal on election day. It was officially given out this morning that the leaders of the party had decided to run a local ticket for their own candidates in opposition to the regular nominees.

The Republican claim that if such a plan is carried out they will swamp Kings County with a tidal wave even greater in its majority of votes than it was last year.

The Shepherds, however, are not to stop with the work in Kings County, as the entire State may be organized to oppose the nominations made at Saratoga yesterday. With this view Charles J. Edwards, Secretary to the Shepard Democracy, went to New York this morning to confer with Mr. Fairchild.

Before he arrived Mr. Edwards said that the organization was not to put a ticket in the field. This plan he did not think feasible, as the Convention must be held within the next five weeks.

What action the local party will take as a whole in regard to supporting the State ticket will be decided, Mr. Edwards said, by the General Committee Monday night. Then resolutions will be passed, either approving or denouncing (more probably the latter, he said) the action of the Convention in refusing to recognize the Shepard delegates. The Committee will also decide when the city county and Assembly conventions are to be held.

About the only candidate settled upon for the Supreme Court bench, turned to Brooklyn this morning and many expressed their disgust at the action of the Convention. The question in their minds was: Would Justice Gaynor accept the nomination for the Court of Appeals?

"I do not see," said Secretary Edwards, "how Justice Gaynor could conscientiously accept a nomination from people who are the enemies of what he is supposed to represent."

Justice Gaynor is too brilliant not to see through the scheme. They never had the remotest idea of nominating him for the Court of Appeals. He was put on the ticket to gather in the friends.

Under what Mr. Hill thinks to-day when he reflects upon the kind of men turned out of the hall yesterday?

Mr. Fairchild, United States District Attorney, Mr. Healy and others expected as prominently as they are expected in National politics. He must have 100,000 votes slipping through his grasp.

We propose to nominate a local ticket to-night to take action. The machine candidates—the same old fight with the same old crowd.

Justice Gaynor, I do not believe will accept the nomination. He could not accept it. He would be signing to end and give up the fight. We are now out for bi—bustling with the new price-list.

TO BE A "BOOLE" CAMPAIGN.

Politicians Regard Hackett's Selection as Evidence of It.

Author of the Famous "Blocks of One" Circular.

The selection of Charles W. Hackett, Chairman of the Republican State Executive Committee, as Chairman of the State Committee to succeed William Brookfield, is said to have another significance besides the ruthless turning down of honest William Brookfield for revengeful Boss Platt.

Mr. Hackett is the author of the famous "Blocks of One" circular, issued during the Presidential campaign of 1892. His present ascendancy is taken to mean by politicians that we are to have a boole campaign.

Backed by Morton "Charley" there are excellent opportunities to carry out Mr. Hackett's plan in his own district, or more on a larger scale. In this connection Mr. Hackett's secret circular, sent out in 1892, becomes of interest. Following is a copy of it:

CONFIDENTIAL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15, 1892.

Dear Sir: I know you are an active, earnest and discreet Republican, and that Republican success in the coming campaign is dear to your heart.

It is the desire of the New York State Republican Committee to be permitted to request you to act as Chairman of the State Committee for the coming year, from time to time during the canvass. Such service will call for the exercise of discretion, and the ability to make a series of talks of a reorganization of the party and an assessment on the stock.

SUGAR YIELDS TO A DRIVE.

Bears Make That Stook the Main Object of Attack.

The bears took another fling at Sugar this morning, and from all appearances had the assistance of insiders, some of whom sold their stock above par and are anxious to get it back ten points lower.

The prominence given to the shutting down of the refineries by President Havemeyer caused the bears to feel that they are on the right track. As a matter of fact, the works are always closed from April to the end of the year for necessary repairs. The canning season is about over, and this is the dull season for the sugar industry. The repairs can be made at a minimum of loss and inconvenience.

The stock opened at 25-8, to 22-1-8, under heavy sales. The break had an influence on the other market, but only the specialties suffered to any great extent. Manhattan fell 1-8, to 1-1-8, and the Consolidated Gas 1-1-4, to 1-1-2-4. American Tobacco 1, to 1-1-4. Missouri Pacific 7-16, to 7-1-8, and New England 3-4, to 3-1-8.

Chicago Gas rose 1-4, to 70-3-4. American Cotton Oil rose 1-4, to 63-3-4. United States Gas 1-2, to 1-3-4. Rock Island 1-8, to 1-1-8. Paul 1-8, to 1-8, and Western Union 1-4, to 1-1-2. Distillers' sold 8-1-8, to 8-1-4. The stock of the sugar refineries was sold at 25-8, to 22-1-8, under heavy sales. The break had an influence on the other market, but only the specialties suffered to any great extent.
